

Biography

Dr Valentina Janev (F) is a Senior Researcher, Head of the Intelligent Systems Department at the Mihajlo Pupin Institute, University of Belgrade, Serbia. She has served as a Coordinator of two EU research projects (LAMBDA and SINERGY), as well as a solution developer, expert and a team leader in many EU Research and Innovation projects including SAIFA, EOSC Alssitant, EUSOME, IntelliLung, InterPED, OMEGA-X, NEON, PLATOON, LOD2, EMILI, GEO-KNOW, HELENA, GenderTIME. She has participated as an expert in projects from the Instrument for Pre-accession Assistance (IPA): IPA Adrion GOTOTWIN, Interreg Danube MOVECO, IPA Adriatic PACINNO. Her current research interests include artificial intelligence, big data analytics, semantic technologies, management of critical infrastructures, open data innovations and statistical data processing. In these areas she published over 130 papers. She also serves as an expert evaluator of EU research projects, as well as a reviewer of respectable international journals.