

Erasmus+ Report

Before coming to Erasmus, I didn't know Erasmus was more of a cultural exchange than an academic exchange, The reason why I was very depressed in my first days, was because I was so obsessed with school. I thought I was coming here to dive into a challenging and Intense marathon of studies.

But as time passed, I realized how important it was for me and my academic process to have this "Break" from an Intense way of studying to learn more about other cultures and meet new people from other nations.

I'm grateful for everything I lived during this semester at PB, to have the chance and opportunity to learn a little bit more about animation and Architecture in a different way.

This experience has taught me that school is not our only challenge as a student, something very important is the interaction between students, especially from different cultures. We all have something to learn and teach each other. It was so special and funny.

Bialystok will always have a special place in my life because, for the first time, I was out of my comfort zone, which is my home, and away from everything and everyone I used to have around.

I'm grateful for Agnieszka and Servando, for taking good care of us while we lived in this City! My God bless your work every day!

Thank you so much for everything!
